

PayPal's Seller Protection Program

Last updated on 17 July 2025

What's eligible

If you sell a good or service to a buyer, you may be eligible for PayPal's Seller Protection program, which terms and conditions are set forth herein and form part of the user agreement. When it applies, PayPal's Seller Protection program entitles you to retain the full purchase amount. PayPal determines, in its sole discretion, whether your claim is eligible for PayPal's Seller Protection program based on the eligibility requirements, any information or documentation provided during the resolution process, or any other information PayPal deems relevant and appropriate under the circumstances. There is no limit on the number of payments eligible for PayPal's Seller Protection program. By accessing the Transaction Details page in your PayPal account you can identify transactions that may be eligible for protection under this program.

PayPal Seller Protection may apply when buyer(s) claim that:

- They did not authorize, or benefit from, funds sent from their PayPal account (referred to as an "Unauthorised Transaction" claim), and the Unauthorised Transaction(s) occur in an environment hosted by PayPal; or
- They didn't receive the item from you (referred to as an "Item Not Received" claim); provided, however that Item Not Received claims that result from buyers filing chargeback claims with their issuers for card-funded transactions are not eligible for PayPal's Seller Protection.

PayPal Seller Protection may also apply when a transaction is reversed because of a successful chargeback by a buyer because they did not authorise the card-funded payment or when a bank funded payment is reversed by the buyer's bank.

This section describes PayPal Seller Protection as it applies to you, but you should also be familiar with the Impact of various PayPal Buyer Protection policies on sellers.

Basic requirements

To be eligible for PayPal Seller Protection, all of the following basic requirements must be met, as well as any applicable additional requirements:

- The primary address for your PayPal account must be in Italy.
- For Unauthorised Transaction claims, you must provide valid proof of shipment or proof of delivery that demonstrates that the item was shipped or provided to the buyer no later than two days after PayPal notified you of the dispute or reversal. For example, if PayPal notifies you of an Unauthorised Transaction claim on September 1, the valid proof of shipment must indicate that the item was shipped to the buyer no later than September 3 to be eligible for PayPal Seller Protection.

- The item must be a physical, tangible good that can be shipped, except for items subject to the Intangible Goods Additional Requirements. Transactions involving items that you deliver in person in connection with payment made in your physical store, may also be eligible for PayPal Seller Protection so long as the buyer paid for the transaction in-person by using a PayPal QR code goods and services.
- You must ship the item to the shipping address on the transaction details page in your PayPal account for the transaction. If you originally ship the item to the recipient's shipping address on the transaction details page but the item is later redirected to a different address, you will not be eligible for PayPal Seller Protection. We therefore recommend not using a shipping service that is arranged by the buyer, so that you will be able to provide valid proof of shipping and delivery.
 - The shipping requirement does not apply to eligible transactions involving items that you deliver in person, provided, however, that you agree to provide us with alternative evidence of delivery, or such additional documentation or information relating to the transaction that we may request.
- You must respond to PayPal's requests for documentation and other information in a timely manner as requested in our email correspondence with you or in our correspondence with you through the Resolution Center. If you do not respond to PayPal's request for documentation and other information in the time requested, you may not be eligible for PayPal Seller Protection.
- If the sale involves pre-ordered or made-to-order goods, you must ship within the timeframe you specified in the listing. Otherwise, it is recommended that you ship all items within 7 days after receipt of payment.
- Provide proof of shipment or delivery.
- In the case of Unauthorised Transaction claims the payment must be marked "eligible" or "partially eligible", for PayPal Seller Protection on the "Transaction Details" page.
- You must accept a single payment from one PayPal Account for the purchase (partial payment and/or payment in installments are excluded).
- Where you have integrated a PayPal Checkout product with your website or application, the following requirements apply to sellers with a PayPal business account, to maintain eligibility for the program and to ensure optimal management of potentially fraudulent transactions:
 - You need to make sure that information about the buyer's browser session and device information when making a PayPal transaction on your website is sent correctly to PayPal. In most cases, this information is sent to PayPal without the need for any action from you. On occasion, it may happen that this information is not being sent. This may happen because you have not integrated your Checkout product correctly or are using an enhancement that requires manual transmission of this data. When this happens, we will inform you and give you a 60-day notice to fix the issue. If the issue is not fixed within this timeframe, we may remove your eligibility for Seller Protection for unauthorized transactions.

- Additional integration requirements may apply to sellers using a PayPal business account to perform transactions associated with a business model that classifies as high-risk as further described in the PayPal User Agreement. Such transactions involve the sale of goods or services in a high-risk category, or other facts known to us typically resulting in an increased number of chargebacks, other claims or disputes or to be often involved in fraud or illegal activity. We put these requirements in place to help make sure that we can continue to meet our security and risk management standards. PayPal will inform you of those requirements in advance and you will be provided with a reasonable timeframe to make any changes that are necessary. If you do not make the changes within this timeframe, we may remove your eligibility for Seller Protection for unauthorized transactions.

PayPal determines whether your claim is eligible for the Seller Protection program. PayPal will make a decision, in its sole discretion, based on the eligibility requirements, any information or documentation provided during the resolution process or any other information PayPal deems relevant and appropriate under the circumstances.

Item Not Received additional requirements

To be eligible for PayPal Seller Protection program for a buyer's Item Not Received claim, you must meet the basic requirements listed above and the additional requirements listed below:

- You must provide proof of delivery as described below.

Intangible Goods additional requirements

For the sale of intangible goods and services to be eligible for PayPal Seller Protection, the sale must meet the basic requirements and the following additional requirements:

- In the case of Unauthorised Transaction claims, PayPal has marked the intangible good transaction as "eligible" on the "Transaction Details" page or otherwise provided notice to you of eligibility in writing.
- Paid Standard Transaction Fees on the sale. This will only apply if the transaction is a payment for digital goods or licenses for digital content (this does not apply to payments for other Intangible Goods).

- Delivered the item and provide Proof of delivery for Intangible Goods.

Establishing proof of delivery or proof of shipment
